Dear Alan,

On his last trip to N.Y. Millikan hoped to see you about an embryonic effort in the biochemistry → biology → morphophysiology → psychophysiology chain. Since you were not there he left the menus with Warren who said he would pass it on.

I am of course very keen about it, and most anxious to see our next egg act as a nest egg. Just now I think our most important problem is most pressing, so that the rest will go under. The rest egg will go under. I am chairman of a committee to discuss this.

I am hoping you may be interested, first to consider the suggestions I am making. Young M.D. trained in psychoanalysis, interested in the biochemical aspects, seemed, before long, to get your thinking on the whole problem as it exists in this region. "It would be a great movement, Dr. Grey, of an institution of such prestige as the Rockefeller Foundation, could show a Temple interest in our efforts!! And add No. 5 that: "Our institution would profit greatly from the advice which you, because of your frustrating duties and wide experience in this field, can give it." Then sign it.
Las Campanas is very bad this way — and

"Respectfully yours" — and that more can I do.

Is there any chance that you may be coming out before long?

Millikan is just back minus his gall bladder. — and lucky to be as well, for he hit it so. Too long before going in.
