

June 24, 1925.

Dear Professor Needham:

Do you expect to continue at your post at Cornell during the summer or for any part of it, or are you perhaps anticipating spending the summer months at some of the marine biological stations?

As I wrote you under date of April 22, we are interested in educating ourselves in the field of fisheries. With this in mind I should like to spend a day or two at Ithaca, if you would give me the privilege of having interview with you and observing the work being done in the general field.

If I should come to Ithaca sometime during the next two weeks, would this time be convenient for you, and if not, would you be good enough to tell me when this visit could be made to the best advantage?

Sincerely yours,

WICKLIFFE ROSE

Professor James G. Needham
Cornell University
Ithaca, New York

WR:DEC

June 29, 1925.

Dear Doctor Needham:

Since writing you I find I have to get away from New York earlier than I had expected. I am visiting a number of marine biological stations during the month of July. In order to complete the journey by the end of July, at which time I must complete it, I shall have to leave New York about July 1. This makes it necessary for me to postpone my visit with you until the autumn. I hope at that time to be able to go over matters with you there at Ithaca.

Sincerely yours,

WICKLIFFE ROSE

Professor J. G. Needham
New York State College of Agriculture
at Cornell University
Ithaca, New York

WR:DEC